MR. MOORE WITHDRAWS HIS COMPLAINT.

An examination was to be held before Justice Duffy yesterday afternoon at the Essex Marketfield Ponce Court, in the case of John S. Couningham, for man of a gang of men engaged in the erection of a pole for the Brush Electric Light Company, who was charged with an assault on William A. Moore, superintendent at Ridley & Son'sstore, as Grand and Allen-sts. When the case was called, the complainant expressed his desire to withdraw the charge and Justice Duffy consented to this. The superintendent was asked if he intended to abandon the attempt to prevent the erection of the pole in front of the store. He answered in the negative, and said: "We will take care of that part of the matter."

Dr. Morris, who was in the station at the time, accompanied Murray to his house. On a bed in a small room the physician found Mrs. Murray. She was perfectly nude, and her face and limbs were covered with bruises. She was unable to talk, and the physician immediately informed the police, who began an investigation to ascertain how she came by her injuries. All that they could learn bearing upon the case was that Murray and his wife had had a quarrel on Friday night. Murray, after his injuried wife had been removed to the Charity H spital, was taken into custody and will be detained to await the result of the woman's injuries.

THE SUICIDE OF JOHN KENNY. WHO FURNISHED THE PISTOL NOT YET ASCER-

Sheriff Stegman, of Kings County, returned to Brooklyn yesterday, leaving Albany at 1 a. m., having been summoned by telegraph, and all day was engaged in investigating the circumstances preceding the suicide of John Kinny, the murderer, which took place at the Raymond Street Jail shortly after mi inight. The names of all the persons who visited the jail on Friday evening and their characters were the subject of rigid inquiry, and so was the question whether they were carefully searched. It was rumored that the Sheriff had a shrewd idea of the person who brought in the pistol, but if so he was careful not to make known his information. Under-Sheriff Hodgkinson stated that orders had been given that the prisoner's movements should be closely watched, and the keepers said that everyone entering the jail was searched. Mr. Hodgkinson thought it possiblt that the pistol was furnished by one of three women who visited Kenny in Friday; they were his wife, his sister, and a woman who was not known to the jail officials. Keeper Schultz said that he suspected that one of three men who called might have brought the pistol. These men were Bernard McGrath, the keeper of the liquorshop where the pistol with which Kenny killed Lennon was found; William Kunzter, an old partner of Kenny, and one of the prisoner's brothers. The last visitors who called were two men, one dressed like a laborer and the other not much better. They told Mr. Schultz that Kenny had sent for them, and they were allowed to see him. They were searched to see if they had any waskey with them. When they left the jail it was nearly 10 o'clock and then Kenny sat down to write his leiter, as Keeper Gallagher locked him up for the night. It is suggested that the pistol was not conveyed to Keeny in the furtherance of any suicidal purpose, but that it was part of a plot by which his escape was to be effected. Keeper Gallagher, who was on duty in the corridor when the male visitors came, said that they were not allowed to enter the cell, but it appears that the w

Uneventful, comparatively speaking, as the real estate market was last week, there was no change in its generally favorable features. The mactivity that some brokers compiain of arises from the strong holding of property. Owners are still in their prices and lenge purchases are confined to investment buyers who are in actual want of the reality which they buy. The inquiries for property, except of special kinds or in particular localities, confining numerous and a little yielding on the part of sellers would a simulate more transactions. There was a good attendance at the auction sales last week, and a fair amount of property was sold at good figures. The more important doily sales were duly noticed in The Tribune. Yesterday Kichard V. Harnett sold thirty-eight city lots in Yonkers on the Saw Mill River. They contain the Waring Hat Factory, which with other improvements, it is thought, could not be replaced to-day for $150,000. The property sold for $93,000 and the machinery for $10,000. The parchaser was Samuel Shethar, the well-known retired hat manufacturer, who recently has been interested considerably in railroad operations. On Tharsday next the stores at Broadway and Worth-sts., occupied by Telft, Weller & Co., will be offered at auction. The offerings at the Exchange Salesroom this weak of attractive business and dwelling property will be many and important.

In reply to the comment made on the offer of only $10,000 for the Knickerbocker Life insurance building at Broadway and Park-place, on Finday, A. J. Bleecker, the auctioneer who put un the property. Said yesterday: "There was really nothing in the property to tempt buyers. It is owned in least-old and not in tee simple. The rent of the land-$24,100—is very high. It was fixed in 1870, when everything was at the top notch and was rising, with no apparent dimit to the notch. The taxes and expense of running the building can be put at $10,000 in addition to the $24,100 leasthold rent. The rents from the offices are only $36,000. It would also cost $16,000 to put the building in proper condition for general use. The lease expires in eight years from the present time."

The absence of a speculative excitement in the real estate market is considered by dealers a good sign of health. Yet transactions at private sale are fairly active. It is understood that the remaining property in Broadway, including the building at No. 71 Broadway, belonging to the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, has been sold. The purchasers are a syndicate of large brokers, but the price paid has not yet been ascertained. Among other down-town sales were those of No. 245 Broadway by Lawson Valentine to George Munro for $190,000; and Nos. S and 10 Brioge-st., by the executors of Adam Smith to Charles II. Kimberly for $110,000. For the latter property a mortgage for half the purchase money was given.

The requirements for membership are simply to be a clubable fellow, and the principes of the organization, as set for him a very lacome constitution, consist mainly in negations. There is no constitution and there are no by-laws or officers, excepting an executive committee of five, including a serverary, who arranges the details of meetings. No initiation fees or dues are required, and each member simply pays $1 for his weekly dinner if he chooses to attend, and has the privilege of bringing a friend to share it with him. Five of these dinners have already been held with an attendance of from fincen to twenty-five. The company sit down at 6 o'clock sharp and usually break up about 9. After the eating is over the rest of the time is occupied by ten-minute "shoot" talks by members, any one of whom is liable to be called upon by the temperary chairman to tell something in his daily experience which may inter st the members. Occasionally a symposium is held in regard to some subject of interest. The roli of members is microssing.
